Living with the Financial Consequences of Cancer: The Stories of Survivors

Have you experienced financial hardship as a result of having cancer? We are conducting a research study about the impact that cancer treatment has on the economic well-being of cancer survivors, how cancer patients manage financial hardship, and how financial hardship can affect overall quality of life of cancer survivors and their families. To be eligible for the study, you must be 18 years or older and have been diagnosed with cancer within the past five years.

This study will take approximately 90 minutes to complete. Your participation in this study will involve the completion of a brief survey and an interview.

Our ultimate goal is to develop effective services to assist cancer patients in preventing financial hardship related to their treatments.

This study is being conducted by Dr. Karen Kayser, Kent School of Social Work & Dr. Barbara Head, School of Medicine.
