

Colorectal Cancer Screening 101: What Community Health Workers Need to Know

Tuesday, January 29th, 2019

1:00 PM EST - 2:00 PM EST

"Millions of people in the United States are not getting screened as recommended. They are missing the chance to prevent colorectal cancer or find it early, when treatment often leads to a cure."

-- Centers for Disease Control and Prevention

Educational Community Health Worker interventions have been shown to increase client knowledge and awareness about colorectal cancer screening, as well as increase completion of screenings among clients. Join us for this informative one-hour webinar discussing the basics of colorectal cancer screening, and what you can do to increase screening rates in your community.

SPEAKERS:

Becki Thompson, BSN, RN, CDE, MLDE is Clinical Support for the Kentucky Colon Cancer Prevention Program. Since 2012, Becki has provided program development, training, patient navigation and clinical oversight to the program within the Kentucky Department for Public Health.

Brian Boisseau is the Program Manager for the Kentucky Colon Cancer Prevention Program. Brian has 16 years experience working in heart disease and stroke prevention, cancer prevention, health promotion, aging and independent living, and healthy communities.

REGISTRATION LINK: <https://redcap.uky.edu/redcap/surveys/?s=HXJAPAY9A4>

MEETING LINK: <https://uky.zoom.us/j/517117364>

Colorectal Cancer Screening

= CANCER PREVENTION

Questions? Contact Jennifer Knight, Co-Principal Investigator for the Kentucky Cancer Consortium at jredknight@kycancerc.org